Dr. David Gabay, a doctor of chiropractic and a diplomate of the American Chiropractic Board of Sports Physicians (DACBSP) at 550 Maple Ave., has been invited to serve as an examiner for the upcoming candidates taking that diplomate certification. The testing will be held in conjunction with the 2014 Chiropractic Sports Science Symposium held April 24-27 in Orlando.

The DACBSP designation is the highest certification for chiropractors in sports injuries. The certification requires 300 additional hours of continuing education units, a written exam, a practical exam, publishing in a peer review journal and experience working with sports teams. This rigorous, demanding training typically takes three years to complete.

Gabay is in his 32nd year practicing in Saratoga, and has served two rotations with United States Olympic Teams, covering wrestling, judo, weightlifting, bobsled, skeleton and luge.

Further information on the American Chiropractic Board of Sports Physicians Orlando seminar and programs are available at www.acbsp.com/symposium.htm.
